(Warren, MI) – The Warren Crime Commission proudly invites residents to Family Safety Day, a free outdoor event featuring hands-on activities, live demonstrations, and valuable safety resources. The event is a great way to connect with local first responders, explore community programs, and learn practical ways to stay safe - all while enjoying a summer afternoon at one of Warren's most popular parks.

Formerly known as Safety Night, this expanded community event now features a broader variety of presentations, activities, and information for residents of all ages.

Scheduled Family Safety Day activities include:

- Free ice cream for all attendees
- Food trucks and local vendor offerings
- Live drone demonstrations
- Blood pressure and glucose screenings
- Smoke detector program sign-up (Warren Fire Department)
- CPR demonstrations
- Crime prevention guidance and home safety tips (Crime Stoppers)
- Overdose prevention education and resources
- Opportunities to meet and engage with community police officers
- Public safety vehicles on display from local departments
- Free giveaways provided by participating agencies

Residents are encouraged to attend, explore the available resources, and take part in building a safer, more connected, and informed community.

“We’re excited to welcome the community to this newly reimagined Family Safety Day,” said Warren Crime Commission Chairperson, Angela Middleswart. “It promises to be a day of fun, connection, and learning, with something valuable for every age group.”

Join us at Halmich Park on August 16 and help make Warren a safer place for everyone.
